Another Tata Nano car catches fire

Agencies Posted online: Wednesday, Apr 07, 2010 at 1651 hrs

Anand : A brand new Tata Nano car which was on its way to be delivered in Vadodara, caught fire near Boriyavi village of the district here today, police said.

The incident took place on National Highway 8, when a fleet of eleven Tata Nano cars was being driven to a dealer in Ahmadabad to be delivered in Vadodara, they said.

This is second such instance in recent days. Last month, in Mumbai, a brand new Nano was reduced to ashes while being driven to home from showroom.

According to police, one of the Nano cars, which was in the middle the fleet, caught fire in its rear portion.

The driver of the car was safe, they said.